COMPANY SUMMARY

Rasco Industries is a dynamic, minority and women owned, manufacturer of stainless steel screens and doors designed to add ventilation, security and pest control to loading docks, metal service doors, and louver air inlets. For decades, our Bug Blocker and Security Link Doors have provided screening solutions for a variety of industries. We've worked closely with major food packaging, processing plants, and food inspection organizations. We've engaged a USDA laboratory to assure product design and screen selections. We've met the rigorous specifications that help companies comply with Homeland Security, FSMA, GFSI, AIB, OSHA, HACCP, USDA, FDA and other quality, safety and security programs. Rasco doors also help meet compliance with the mandatory OSHA fall protection regulations for loading docks.

The inventor of screens for loading docks back in 1990, Rasco continues to be the industry standard for over 30 years. Winner of numerous industry excellence awards, Rasco doors are custom made, meaning they can be designed to meet unique requirements. Our modular designs and unique serial numbers ensure hassle-free support, replacement, and repair. With time-tested quality, our doors still perform years after they have been installed. Our significant experience and compliance-focused engineering means we haven't stopped improving. We continually monitor and take the lead in adapting to the ever-changing industry requirements.
